

Sven Ubik received his MSc. and Dr. in Computer Science from the Czech Technical University in 1990 and 1998, respectively. He is currently with the Research and development department of CESNET, a Czech NREN (National Research and Educational Network). He is leading a research group for Technologies for networking applications and his research interests include multimedia transmissions, network monitoring, programmable hardware, photonic and programmable networks. He is Cisco CCIE #14053.